MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION AND FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Plaintiff David Tourgeman (“Tourgeman”) is a Mexican resident who claims that he entered into an oral agreement with Defendants Dell Financial Services, L.L.C. (sued as Dell Financial Services, L.P.) (“DFS”) and CIT Financial, USA, Inc. (“CIT”) for the financing of a Dell computer (the “Agreement”) on or before November 18, 2001. Second Amended Complaint (“SAC”) ¶¶ 5, 23.) Tourgeman claims he had his Dell computer shipped directly to his parents’ home in Chula Vista, California. (SAC ¶ 22.) While the terms of that “Agreement” are neither alleged nor attached to the original complaint or the SAC, Tourgeman further claims that he paid the entire financing obligation before its maturity and before August 2, 2003. (SAC ¶¶ 23-25.)

Tourgeman claims that DFS and CIT did not properly implement a system for the receipt of payments, failed to process payments properly and accurately and failed to indicate when an obligation had been paid in full. (SAC ¶ 26.) Tourgeman further alleges that DFS and CIT took the position that he failed to pay the entire amount owed on the Agreement, and eventually sold the outstanding debt to Collins Financial Services (“Collins”) for collection. (SAC ¶ 27.) After Collins purchased the account, it filed a collection case against Tourgeman for his failure to timely pay amounts outstanding on the Agreement. (SAC ¶ 30.) Although Collins later dismissed the complaint (before the responsive pleading deadline), Tourgeman responded by filing his complaint on July 31, 2008, in which he asserted various claims against Collins, its attorneys Nelson & Kennard, and DFS. Then, on April 6, 2009, Plaintiff amended his complaint to include class allegations and add CIT as a party to the lawsuit. In Plaintiff’s First Amended Complaint, he asserted claims against both DFS and CIT for unfair business practices and negligence.

On April 20, 2009, DFS filed a motion to dismiss the First Amended Complaint. (Request for Judicial Notice Exh. 1, Court's August 6, 2009 Order granting, in part, DFS' Motion to Dismiss). On August 27, 2009, Plaintiff filed a Second Amended Complaint,

1 alleging causes of action for (1) violations of the Federal and California Fair Debt
 2 Collections Practices Acts; (2) California's Unfair Business Practices Act (Cal. Bus. and 3 Prof. Code § 17200, et seq.) ("UCL"); (3) negligence; and (4) invasion of privacy arising
 4 out of Plaintiff's purchase and finance of a Dell computer system. (See, generally SAC.)
 5 With respect to DFS and CIT, Tourgeman seeks relief for violations of the UCL, invasion
 6 of privacy and negligence.

7 Having now had three attempts to replead his allegations, it is evident that 8 Tourgeman cannot allege any unlawful or unfair conduct by DFS or CIT sufficient to 9 maintain standing to seek relief under the UCL. A plaintiff asserting claims for violations
 10 of the UCL must establish proper standing or face dismissal of that claim at the pleadings
 11 stage. Long v. Hewlett-Packard Co., 2006 WL 4877691 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2006)
 12 (applying California law); Laster v. T-Mobile USA, Inc., 407 F.Supp.2d 1181, 1194 (S.D.
 13 Cal. 2005); Hall v. Time, Inc., 158 Cal.App.4th 847 (2008) (affirming dismissal on 14 demurrer of claims for unfair competition, fraud, and CLRA violations, finding deficient
 15 pleading of any "injury in fact" plus, separately, a lack of "a causal connection or reliance 16 on the alleged misrepresentation."). Here, Tourgeman's attempt to link his claim for 17 invasion of privacy to his UCL claim fails since Tourgeman has not alleged invasion of 18 privacy with the requisite specificity to withstand a motion to dismiss. Accordingly, both 19 his UCL and invasion of privacy claims should be dismissed without leave to amend.

21 II. STANDARDS ON A MOTION TO DISMISS

22 A. F.R.C.P. 12(b)(1)

23 When it is clear from the face of the complaint that a plaintiff cannot prove any set 24 of facts in support of his claim of standing, the court must grant a motion to dismiss 25 under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(1).¹ Watson v. Chessman, 362 F. Supp. 2d 1190, 1194 (S.D. Cal.

26 ¹ FRCP 12(b)(1) attacks on jurisdiction can be either facial or factual in nature. Savage v. Glendale
 27 Union High School, Dist. No. 205, Maricopa County, 343 F.3d 1036, 1040 n. 2 (9th Cir. 2003) (citing 28 White v. Lee, 227 F.3d 1214, 1242 (9th Cir. 2000)). Here, neither DFS nor CIT seek to introduce extrinsic evidence in support of its 12(b)(1) motion; the allegations themselves are insufficient to

1 2005). The burden of proof for a Rule 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss is on the party
 2 asserting jurisdiction. Watson v. Chessman, 362 F. Supp. 2d at 1194; see also Scott v.
 3 Breeland, 792 F.2d 925, 927 (9th Cir. 1986) (“The party seeking to invoke the court’s 4 jurisdiction bears the burden of establishing that jurisdiction exists.”).

5 Standing is a jurisdictional requirement, and a party invoking federal jurisdiction
 6 has the burden of establishing it. Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 561, 112
 7 S.Ct. 2130, 2136, 119 L.Ed.2d 351 (1992). Standing is a “threshold question in every 8 case.” Warth v. Seldin, 422 U.S. 490, 498, 95 S.Ct. 2197, 2205, 45 L.Ed.2d 343 (1975).
 9 In Lujan, the United States Supreme Court developed a three-pronged test for standing.
 10 First, “the plaintiff must have suffered an ‘injury in fact’—an invasion of a legally 11 protected interest which is (a) concrete and particularized and (b) ‘actual or imminent’
 12 not ‘conjectural’ or ‘hypothetical.’” Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560-61. Second, there must be a 13 causal connection between the injury and the conduct serving as the basis of the lawsuit.
 14 Third, it must be likely that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision. Id.

15 Although California state law has more lenient standing requirements than its 16 federal counterpart, “standing sufficient to meet federal standards is a jurisdictional 17 requirement imposed by Article III of the U.S. Constitution and takes priority.” Cattie v.
 18 Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 504 F.Supp.2d 939, 942 (S.D. Cal. 2007) (citing Lee v. American 19 Nat'l Ins. Co., 260 F.3d 997, 999-1000, 1001-02 (9th Cir. 2001). Accord Wheeler v.
 20 Travelers Ins. Co., 22 F.3d 534, 537 (3d Cir. 1994) (citing Phillips Petroleum Co. v.
 21 Shutts, 472 U.S. 797, 804, 105 S.Ct. 2695, 2670, 86 L.Ed. 2d 628 (1985) (holding that 22 standing to bring an action in federal court is determined under federal, not state law.)).
 23 “A state law creating a right to sue cannot confer standing, although it can create an 24 interest or legal right, the infringement of which could constitute an “injury in fact”
 25 sufficient to support standing.” Cattie v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 504 F. Supp. 2d at 942

26

 28 demonstrate any reliance or loss of money or property, both of which are required to state a claim under the UCL.

1 (citing Cantrell v. City of Long Beach, 241 F.3d 674, 684 (9th Cir. 2001)). Because 2 Tourgeman's claims against CIT arise under state law only, under Erie R. Co. v.
 3 Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64, 58 S. Ct. 817, 82 L. Ed. 1188 (1939), his substantive rights in 4 this Court are no greater than they would be in state court. Id. Accordingly, "Federal law
 5 may limit [Tourgeman's] standing, but it will not expand [his] right to bring this action
 6 beyond what is provided under state law." Id.

8 B. F.R.C.P. 12(b)(6)

9 A motion to dismiss under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(6) tests the sufficiency of a complaint.
 10 Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). Dismissal of a claim under Rule
 11 12(b)(6) is warranted where the complaint lacks a cognizable legal theory. Id.; Robertson
 12 v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 749 F.2d 530, 534 (9th Cir. 1984); see also Neitzke v.
 13 Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 326 (1989) ("Rule 12(b)(6) authorizes a court to dismiss a claim
 14 on the basis of a dispositive issue of law.") Additionally, a claim may be dismissed 15 where it presents a viable legal theory but the plaintiff fails to plead essential facts under 16 that theory. Robertson, 749 F.2d at 534. In ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the court
 17 need not accept legal conclusions as true simply because they are asserted as factual
 18 contentions. Ileto v. Glock, Inc., 349 F.3d 1191, 1200 (9th Cir. 2003); Western Mining 19 Council v. Watt, 643 F.2d 618, 624 (9th Cir. 1981). "Factual allegations must be enough 20 to raise a right to relief above the speculative level, on the assumption that all the 21 allegations in the complaint are true (even if doubtful in fact)." Bell Atlantic Corp. v.
 22 Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (citations omitted); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S.Ct.
 23 1937, 1950 (2009) ("a court considering a motion to dismiss can choose to begin by 24 identifying pleadings that, because they are no more than conclusions, are not entitled to 25 the assumption of truth. While legal conclusions can provide the framework of a 26 complaint, they must be supported by factual allegations. When there are well-pleaded 27 factual allegations, a court should assume their veracity and then determine whether they 28 plausibly give rise to an entitlement to relief.")

1 Here, Tourgeman has failed to properly plead any viable acts of unfair competition
 2 or claims for invasion of privacy against either DFS or CIT.

4 III. TOURGEMAN'S INVASION OF PRIVACY CLAIM IS NOT PLED
 5 SUFFICIENTLY TO WITHSTAND A MOTION TO DISMISS

6 To state a claim for violation of the constitutional right of privacy, a party must 7 establish (1) a legally protected privacy interest; (2) a reasonable expectation of privacy
 8 under the circumstances; and (3) a serious invasion of the privacy interest. See 9 International Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers, Local 21, AFL-CIO v.
 10 Superior Court, 42 Cal. 4th 319, 338 (2007). Courts have identified four discrete 11 activities that may “violate this privacy protection and give rise to tort liability. These 12 activities are: (1) intrusion into private matters; (2) public disclosure of private facts; (3) 13 publicity placing a person in a false light; and (4) misappropriation of a person's name or 14 likeness. Each of these four categories identifies a distinct interest associated with an 15 individual's control of the process or products of his or her personal life.” Moreno v.
 16 Hartford Sentinel, Inc., 172 Cal. App. 4th 1125, 1129 (2009) (affirming demurrer to 17 invasion of privacy claim) (citing Hill v. National Collegiate Athletic Assoc., 7 Cal. 4th.
 18 1, 24 (1994)).

19 Although Tourgeman has asserted a cause of action for invasion of privacy against 20 all defendants, at least three of the purported underlying actions involve attempting to 21 collect a “non-existent” debt in violation of the FDCPA and Rosenthal Act, including 22 filing a state court action in furtherance of these efforts. (SAC ¶¶ 30, 52-58.) Thus, the 23 only conceivable basis Tourgeman has for asserting a violation by DFS and CIT of his 24 right to privacy to begin with is alleged public disclosure of private facts. See SAC ¶ 63
 25 (“By selling account information about debts that do not actually exist, the Debt 26 Originator Defendants violated the letter and intent of these statutes.”). The elements of 27 this tort are: “(1) public disclosure (2) of a private fact (3) which would be offensive and 28 objectionable to the reasonable person and (4) which is not of legitimate public

1 concern.”” Moreno v. Hartford Sentinel, Inc., 172 Cal. App. 4th at 1129-30 (citing 2 Shulman v. Group W Productions, Inc., 18 Cal. 4th 200, 214 (1998)). The absence of any 3 one of these elements prohibits any recovery by the plaintiff. Id. (citation omitted).

4 Although Tourgeman has parroted these elements in the SAC, DFS and CIT’s
 5 alleged reporting of information to a consumer reporting agency is still not actionable.
 6 As set forth in California Civil Code § 1785.32, “no consumer may bring any action or 7 proceeding in the nature of defamation, invasion of privacy or negligence with respect to 8 the reporting of information against any consumer reporting agency, any user of 9 information, or any person who furnishes information to a consumer reporting agency, 10 based on information disclosed pursuant to Section 1785.10 [inspection of files by 11 consumer], 1785.15 [time and manner of supplying files and information] or 1785.20 12 [disclosure to consumer of source of report and nature of information] of this title, except 13 as to false information furnished with malice or willful intent to injure such consumer.”
 14 Pulver v. Avco Financial Servs., 182 Cal. App. 3d 622, 634 (1986); see also 15 U.S.C. §
 15 1681(a) (“The term “person” means any individual, partnership, corporation, trust, estate, 16 cooperative, association, government or governmental subdivision or agency, or other 17 entity.”). Here, Tourgeman complains that his debt to DFS and CIT was paid off, but he 18 does not allege that either entity willfully or maliciously caused derogatory comments to 19 be placed on his credit report. Because Tourgeman has not alleged the essential elements 20 to plead around this statutory shield, his cause of action for invasion of privacy on this 21 ground fails.

1 IV. NEITHER TOURGEMAN NOR ANY PROPOSED PUTATIVE CLASS
 2 MEMBERS HAVE ALLEGED A VIABLE CAUSE OF ACTION AGAINST 3 DFS OR CIT UNDER CALIFORNIA'S UNFAIR COMPETITION LAWS

4 A. Tourgeman Has Failed To Plead Any Unlawful, Unfair Or Fraudulent
 5 Conduct By DFS Or CIT

6 To be actionable under the UCL, a “plaintiff must establish that the practice is 7 either unlawful (i.e., is forbidden by law), unfair (i.e., harm to victim outweighs any 8 benefit) or fraudulent (i.e., is likely to deceive members of the public).” Albillio v.
 9 Intermodal Container Servs., Inc., 114 Cal.App.4th 190, 206 (2003). No matter what the 10 standard, however, Tourgeman has alleged no unfair, unlawful or fraudulent conduct that 11 is actionable under the UCL. Buller v. Sutter Health, 160 Cal. App. 4th 981, 986 (2008).

12 As this Court previously held, “the reasoning of the California Supreme Court in 13 Cel-Tech [Communications, Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Tel. Co., 20 Cal. 4th 163
 14 (1999)] leads logically to an application of the “tether” test” to consumer UCL suits.”
 15 (RJN Exh. 1, Court’s August 6, 2009 Order on Motion to Dismiss); see also Bardin v.
 16 DaimlerChrysler Corp., 136 Cal.App.4th 1255, 1271-72 (2006) (“[W]here a claim of an
 17 unfair act or practice is predicated on public policy, we read Cel-Tech [Communications, 18 Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Telephone Co., 20 Cal.4th 163, 180 (1999)] to require that 19 the public policy which is a predicate to the action must be ‘tethered’ to specific 20 constitutional, statutory or regulatory provisions.”); Belton v. Comcast Cable Holdings, 21 LLC, 60 Cal.Rptr.3d 631, 645 (2007) (“[t]his court . . . has followed the line of authority
 22 that also requires the allegedly unfair business practice be “tethered” to a legislatively
 23 declared policy or has some actual or threatened impact on competition”); In re Firearm
 24 Cases, 126 Cal App. 4th 959 (2005); Schnall v. Hertz Corp., 78 Cal.App.4th 1144, 1166
 25 (2000); Gregory v. Albertson’s, Inc., 104 Cal.App.4th 845, 854 (2002).

26 Tourgeman has again failed in the SAC to allege any unfair actions which are 27 “tethered to any constitutional, statutory or regulatory provision.” Tourgeman has 28 attempted to predicate his UCL claim on an alleged invasion of privacy (SAC ¶ 63);

1 however, he has not offered any factual allegations to demonstrate how DFS and CIT
 2 specifically violated any of the alleged underlying statutes merely by selling a debt that
 3 he claims was paid off. Although Tourgeman apparently does not accuse DFS and CIT
 4 of fraudulent behavior which would trigger additional specificity in pleading under Rule
 5 9, “even under Rule 8(a) [Plaintiff] must allege the details . . . with enough specificity for 6 the defendant and the court to be able to identify it. The circumstances under which the 7 practice occurred must be spelled out clearly, including the time, place and manner in 8 which defendant engages in the practice” Marolda v. Symantec Corp., 2009 WL
 9 2252125, * 10 (N.D. Cal. July 28, 2009) (granting defendant’s motion to dismiss UCL 10 claim with respect to alleged practice of billing for unwanted renewal of software). The 11 bare bones legal assertions set forth in the SAC offer no information as to how 12 Tourgeman, or any of the unnamed class members or members of the general public,
 13 were contacted, pursued and/or sued by DFS or CIT. Furthermore, there is no indication 14 as to the extent or manner of the alleged monetary injuries suffered by these class 15 members as a result of these amorphous practices.

16 Second, as set forth above, Tourgeman has failed to sufficiently allege that DFS or 17 CIT’s actions comprise unlawful conduct. See Schnall, 78 Cal.App.4th at 1153. As set 18 forth above, to the extent that the underlying allegations of statutory violations are with 19 respect to Tourgeman’s invasion of privacy claim, this claim has not been sufficiently 20 pled. Tourgeman’s other generalized attempts to assert violations of the California
 21 Financial Information Privacy Act (Cal. Financial Code §§ 4050-4060) and Gramm-
 22 Leach-Bliley Act (15 U.S.C. § 6801 et seq.) likewise fail since both statutes address
 23 conduct by a financial institution. Tourgeman has not alleged that either CIT or DFS
 24 comprise financial institutions for purposes of attaching liability under these statutes. See 25 15 U.S.C. § 6809(3)(A); 12 U.S.C. § 1843(k); Cal. Fin. Code § 4052(c) (incorporating 26 same). Accordingly, Tourgeman’s efforts to plead “unlawful” conduct against DFS and 27 CIT are insufficient to withstand a motion to dismiss.

1 B. Tourgeman Continues To Allege No Injury-In-Fact Sufficient To
 2 Overcome The Standing Requirements Prescribed By Proposition 64.

3 Under Proposition 64, the law is explicit that a private person has standing to bring 4 a claim under the unfair competition laws only if he or she “(1) “has suffered injury in 5 fact,” and (2) “has lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition.”
 6 Germain v. J.C. Penney Co., 2009 WL 1071336 (C.D. Cal. July 6, 2009) (citing Hall v.
 7 Time, Inc., 158 Cal. App. 4th at 852); Californians for Disability Rights v. Mervyn’s,
 8 LLC, 39 Cal.4th at 227; Laster v. T-Mobile USA, Inc., 407 F.Supp.2d 1181, 1193 (S.D.
 9 Cal. 2005). In addition, a plaintiff must also specifically allege actual reliance to state a 10 claim under the UCL’s fraud prong. Id. at 1194; see also Cattie at 946; In re Tobacco II
 11 Cases, 46 Cal. 4th 298, 326 (2009) (“we conclude that [the “as a result of”] language
 12 imposes an actual reliance requirement on plaintiffs prosecuting a private enforcement
 13 action under the UCL’s fraud prong”). Indeed, the courts have repeatedly held no valid
 14 claims exist under the UCL absent sufficient pleading of gateway standing requirements.
 15 See In re Firearm Cases, 126 Cal App. 4th at 978 (“Without evidence of a causative link
 16 between the unfair act and the injuries or damages, unfairness by itself merely exists as a 17 will-o'-the-wisp legal principle.”); Medina v. Safe Guard Prods., 164 Cal.App.4th 105, 18 115 (2008) (“[t]his court in Hall also stated that even if there was injury in fact by virtue
 19 of payment for the book, the “as a result” language imports a reliance or causation
 20 element into Business and Professions Code section 17204.”). Though a plaintiff need not 21 allege reliance with respect to claims based on unfair or unlawful conduct, he or she still 22 must allege “causation more generally.” In re Ditropan XL Antitrust Litig., 529 F. Supp.
 23 2d 1098, 1106-07 (N.D. Cal. 2007).

24 Here, Tourgeman has failed to allege a sufficient “injury-in-fact” to surpass the 25 pleading stage. The SAC only vaguely alludes to monetary damages sustained by class 26 members and the general public as a result of actions of DFS and CIT. (SAC ¶ 65.) The 27 continuing lack of allegations as to personal losses resulting from DFS and CIT’s alleged 28 collection practices is telling of Tourgeman’s inability to properly plead a UCL claim in

1 this case. Quite simply, there is no alleged causation with respect to Tourgeman
 2 whatsoever.

3 Nevertheless, even if the Court finds that Tourgeman has pled such a loss, his 4 claim is still deficient since it contains only the most cursory of legal assertions and lacks
 5 any indication of the type, time or manner of monetary losses that these unnamed class
 6 members allegedly suffered by virtue of the purported collection practices of DFS and 7 CIT. See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1950 (“Rule 8 marks a notable and generous
 8 departure from the hyper-technical, code-pleading regime of a prior era, but it does not 9 unlock the doors of discovery for a plaintiff armed with nothing more than 10 conclusions.”). This nebulous pleading style is exactly the type that is appropriate for 11 dismissal at the pleading stage. Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007); 12 Balisteri v. Pacifica Police Dept., 901 F.3d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1990) (“Dismissal can be 13 based on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or the absence of sufficient facts alleged 14 under a cognizable legal theory.”)

16 V. CONCLUSION

17 For all the foregoing reasons and based on the authorities set forth above, DFS and 18 CIT respectfully request that the Court grant its Motion to Dismiss in its entirety.
